*"It is the business of the future to be dangerous."
— A.N. Whitehead, 20th century scientific author*

We dedicate the 1968 Campion KNIGHT to the future of Campion and to the future of our generation. Martin Luther King, Jr. is a symbol of that future. The future is born in our commitment and matures through involvement.

By living his life in commitment, Martin King secured a dangerous future. So let us, Campion students, parents, teachers, and alumni, believe in and commit ourselves to a dangerous future, whether it be racism or brotherhood, war or peace, maturation or laziness. Only then, when we commit ourselves, can, in John Kennedy's words, "God's work truly be our own."

Homecoming 1967

Year Begins With Homecoming in Focus.

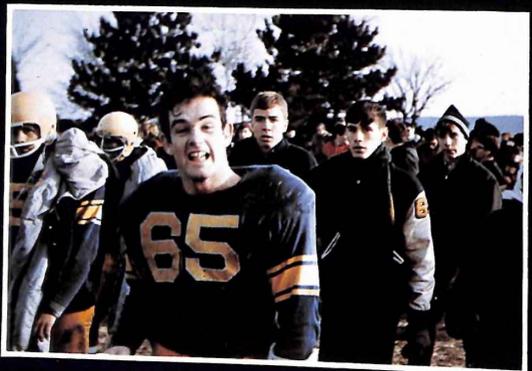

The theory and style of Homecoming decorations, set and molded by tradition, left little room for creativity or difference. Some crept through only to be trampled upon or stifled by costly mistakes.

The Lucy Hall balloon, days in the inflating, was burst by an accidental hammer wield. The multi-colored chalk welcome on the Hoffman Hall sidewalk approach was washed out by a sudden half-frozen rain the night before. The Xavier Hall decorations, revolutionary in style and depicting questions and thoughts all the way from Confucius to Joan Baez and touching on topics like the War and God was unwanted by the faculty and Senior Class. Hulk refused to be moved but at the last moment permitted visitors to come and see him.

The mass confusion and near-bitterness was never resolved but merely forgotten about. And although the campus was bare in comparison to past extravaganzas there was something present never there before.

Bonfire and Phil Krause.

Never Typical Bonfire Warms the Cold.

Even the shape of the bonfire was different. Someone referred to a Boy Scout Handbook for the criss-cross effect. Everyone was ice from the pep rally, skit and team introduction and the crowd followed the team captain and cheerleaders to light the fire. And as usual everyone was dying for warmth and got too much and the ring around the fire became wider and wider and wider until everyone retreated entirely.

Thor Makes Scene in Fillmore Setting.

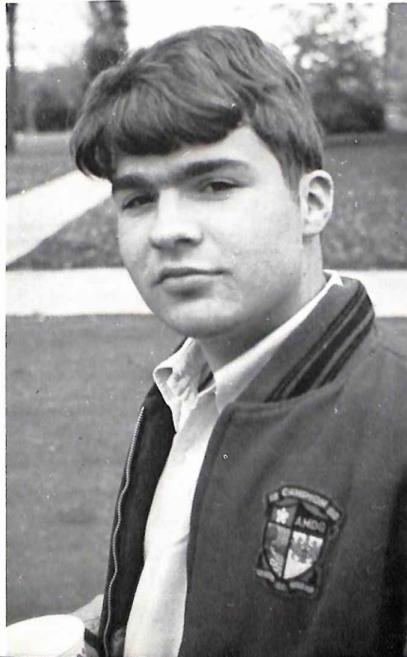

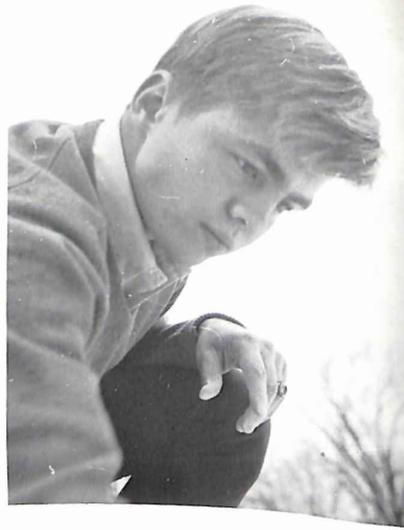

The theme was different in that there wasn't any. The atmosphere was different in that there was some. Thor was the highlight as he spoke his fearful words about the eternal comic book struggle. The strobe lights panted out and about. And all danced until they were sick and wanted to rest and talk.

It was a gala affair in a pseudo-San Francisco style. It was a fitting climax to a long-houred preparation and a many-monthed loneliness. It was good to see everyone smiling and dancing and having a time. No one mentioned the missing band when it was all over. It was like talking about the weather; it really did not matter. Too much had come before to let it interfere.

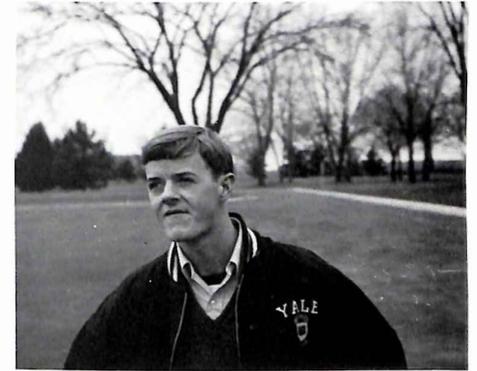

I Like School Because of the People.

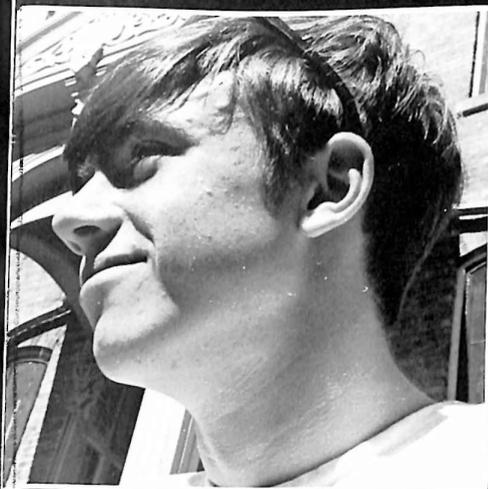

A printed word or a pictured building are memories never to be forgotten. But the value of Campion is not in a third year report card or a dance bid or a blue or white Campion T-shirt kept or worn for years hence. These are all objects which are meaningless except in what they reflect. There is more to school than bricks and cement.

These and the following six pages are individual photographs of people not especially important in themselves except in the fact that they reveal faces you will see forever and voices that will echo long in your ears. You will see a face or two you cannot identify — a picture you have no name to attach to — a person you have never met. Nothing compares to faces with eyes. Where do they go?

Even in the middle of the year you can imagine and feel what it will be like over the summer. Friends are not had and then tossed away. No one is forgotten for the three months of the twelve. Everyone can not wait to return after vacation.

When Seniors graduate they seem to come back to school. Students who run away come back to visit. Even the Jesuits drop in for awhile. Something very mysterious, something very bewildering and yet remarkably obvious and simple draws us all to return. You will return and if you don't you will want to.

Wahlert Game Glitters in Final Victory.

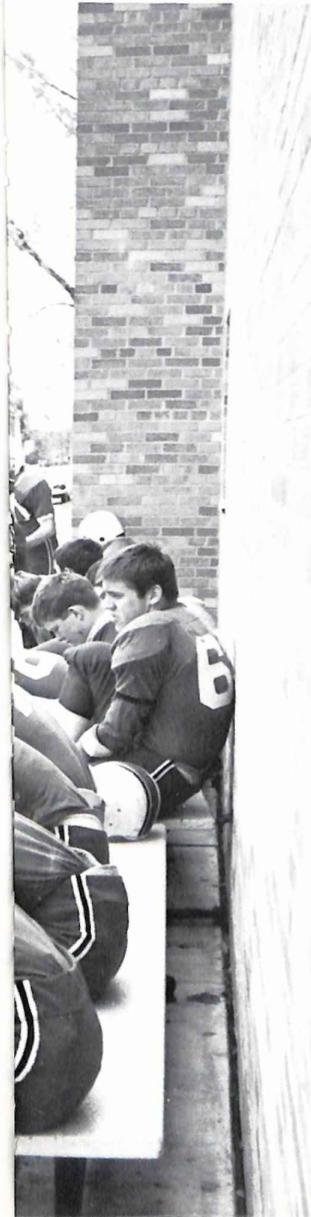

A group of Wahlert fans skipped off their bus expecting a video tape replay of their previous year's domination. We could not be charitable.

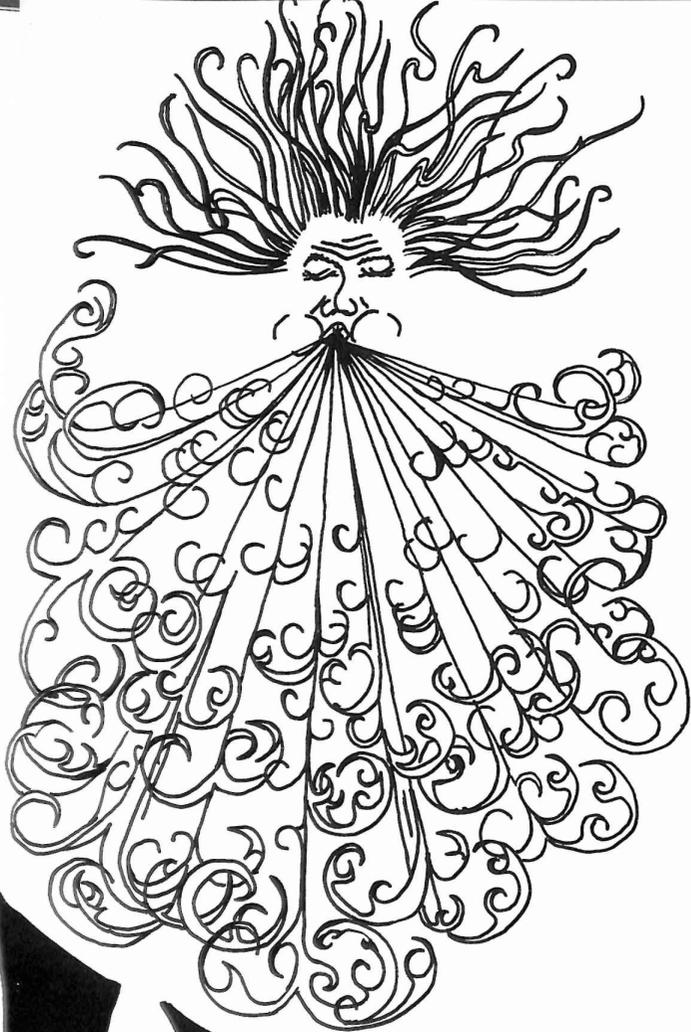

The game meant erasing Wahlert's superiority, it meant Homecoming's brightness, and it meant a winning season.

Still in the We-Beat-Aquinas spirit, perfection abounded. Up and down the field it went. The ball flew as gracefully as the sun sets — our way. It was almost an instant video tape replay for us as touchdown followed touchdown.

After the Aquinas and Wahlert games everyone asked the typical question of why we hadn't played like that all year. And no one knows why. But we all know we did play with speed, agility, and that never give up attitude for the last five. And that's all that's important.

Tom Scherrman — first in state.

Wrestling

"Really? ... Cool!" remarks T. S. as T. C. makes still another scenic observation on the way back from the state tourney. Actually, that phrase sums up the entire 7-3 season. We had a great start, beating Aquinas, but it was our fate for them to plague us for the rest of the year and disappoint great expectations.

An individual review of the varsity wrestlers shows "first-in-state" Tom Scherrman and Brad Manatt on top with records of 17-2 and 16-3 respectively. Other greats were our two conference firsts, Tom Curnes and Bob "first-as-always" May.

Even though the team only placed seventh at state, it did better at the other tournaments it participated in. Distant Green Bay was the site of an honorable third position and a general good time, as the team struggled against Francis Jordan of Milwaukee and Premontre of Green Bay. Later, though not as exciting, the conference meet was even more profitable as the Knights held on to second behind Aquinas.

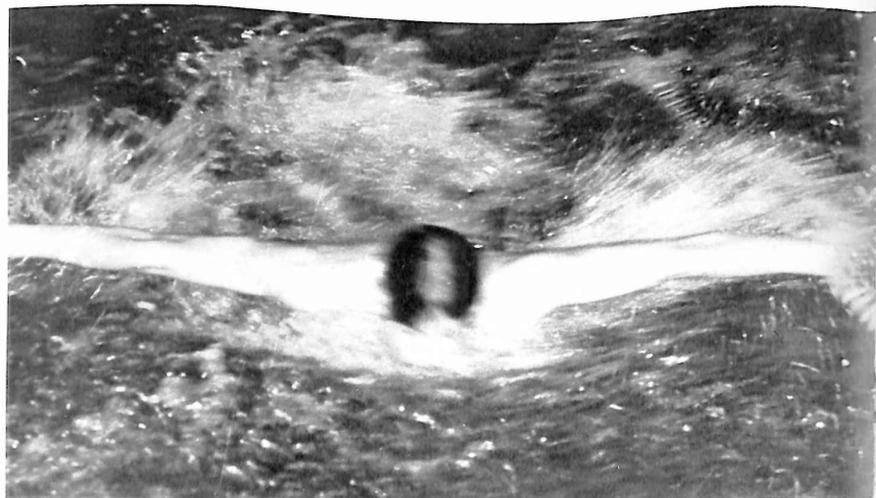

Swimming

It was not the most successful season Campion's swimming team has ever enjoyed. As a matter of fact, the '67-'68 season was a disaster, being the worst Campion swimming has had in its four years of existence. Times were slow, the dual meet record was 5-7, very few school records were broken, and to top things off, the trip to Philadelphia for the Nationals, a booming success last year, was a fiasco.

Despite all this, the year was not a total failure. No doubt it was embarrassing for the ten returning lettermen to endure such a season as this after last year's successes. The team had lost some fine swimmers due to various reasons, and this hurt them as far as superficial things like win-loss records go.

In swimming a win-loss record does not tell the whole story. No, it's great to win and the athlete should never be satisfied with losing, but swimming is much more than just a season record. Ask any dedicated swimmer whether he gets more satisfaction from swimming his best time in a losing effort to a better team or beating an inferior team with a mediocre effort, and the answer will be the same. These are the kind of swimmers that made up Campion's team.

Rifle Team

With a 10-5 record to date including a six match winning streak, the Champion marksmen now possess the best record of the last few years.

This year's team is co-captained by Jim Cahill and Lee Stack and is comprised totally of underclassmen. Thus the first team of Jim Cahill, Lee Stack, Wayne Pretschold and Dave Jestle is looking forward to future fame. Contributing to the success of these men is the second team of Bill "Andy" Devine, John Kleihege, Clarence Luedtke and Leslie Maiman who are always attempting to outdo them.

Mil Ball

It was greasy. It was groovy. It was up-tight and quite clean out of sight. Harry edged out Tom Martin for the crown. The Buffum Tool Company stormed, screamed and finally ignited a soulful fire that burned, indeed charred, the very pulsating walls. The armory did not cease to rock. It was a colorful crowd and planned passion was the name of the game. The evening pitched and bumped toward an exciting climax that was enjoyed by all. A short pause for heavy breathing, and then a final rise in action seduced an enraptured crowd. With arm pits leaking individuals fled the scene and a subtle grin revealed all.

FACULTY ACADEMIC

Administration

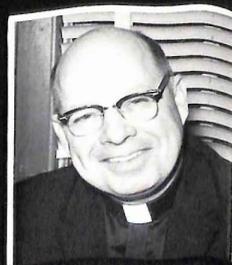

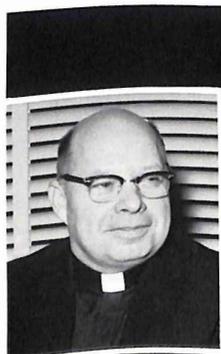

Very Rev. J. Robert Hilbert S.J., President

The name is Hilbert. He doesn't make all the pep rallies, and he isn't in charge of prefecting. In fact, very few people ever see him on the job.

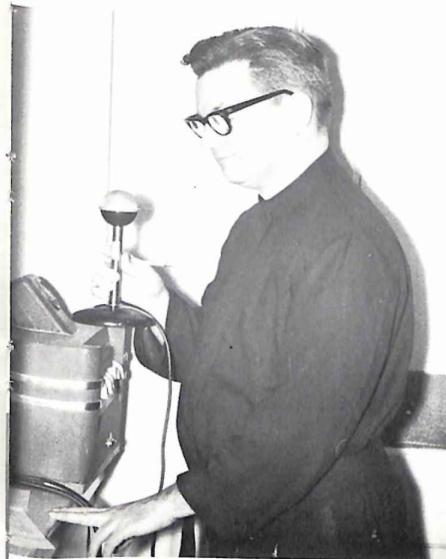

But the quiet smile on the other side of those venetian blinds does more than smile. Fr. Hilbert has borne the responsibility across the board for Campion's changing visage.

From changing the disciplinary system to include student representatives, to the complex job of decentralizing the establishment, Fr. Hilbert has been a dynamic leader.

This copy has used several cliches. Very few people can live up to them. But if exceptions such as Fr. Hilbert continue to strive toward these ideals, someday everyone may be able to smile.

Moods of a Man

Rev. William J. Doran S.J., Principal.

Perhaps one of the most difficult tasks to be fulfilled at any academic institution is the job of the Principal. As Principal, Rev. William J. Doran S.J. has guided Campion to a degree of academic excellence that has brought the school wide acclaim.

Father Doran, constantly seeking better teaching methods, often interviews classes. One of Father's greatest responsibilities lies in College Counselling for Seniors.

Father Doran adds a complete dimension to the Campion student's fulfillment, a dimension which only he could complete so effectively.

Rev. Eugene M. Dutkiewicz S.J., Asst. Principal.

For a duration of a tedious four years, Rev. E. M. Dutkiewicz has occupied the Jesuit stronghold of Assistant Principal. Though a large portion of student control has passed through his hands into those of the various Deans, Fr. Dutkiewicz still makes it clear who holds the reigns of authority and has last say.

Being the first to admit that he is not one to take chances on school policy, Fr. Dutkiewicz considers both sides of the issue before committing himself. His committals are usually governed by the student co-operation and responsibility and the need for change. Knowing him personally, dealing with him on a one to one basis, reveals another side to the man who is forced to deal with groups and masses of students.

English

Father Frank Burke S.J.

Mr. Richard Lundstrom

A man grasps reality; his mind touches another mind; another man holds the same reality. When this process of communication is verbal, it is language, in our case, English.

Whether considered as an objective study or as a subjective skill, English, like all living languages, is alloyed of listening and speaking, reading and writing.

Both in chronology and in importance, listening is first. It is an active contact with reality through all the senses; its attitude is an open, child-like awe; its fruition is the "capture" of something real by learning from another its name.

Speaking is second. It too must be learned; for the mouth is unlike the eye which, opened, sees. Speech completes the communication process by making it reciprocal. It imparts one's observations and judgments to others.

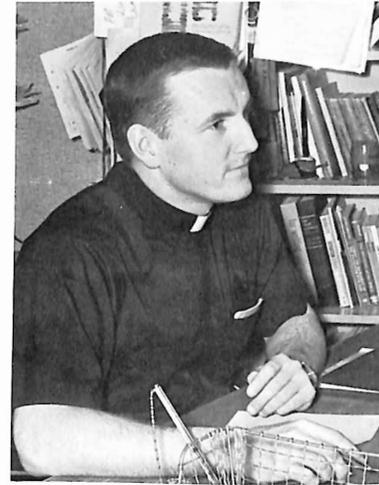

Finally, reading and writing complement listening and speaking. They enable men to listen to those who are dead or absent, to speak to those who are absent or yet unborn.

Such is language. Its attributes? Like the physicist's now mythical ether, language is not light, but without it the light could scarcely shine. Like all man's tools, his watches and cars, his ships and jets, the best language is beautiful.

All these things we hope to achieve in English — to hear and read the best available men, to observe and judge, then to speak and write with clarity, and force, and perhaps, beauty.

Mr. Lou Blumberg S.J.

Mr. Mike Mankowski, S.J.

Mr. Jim Gau, S.J.

Mr. Dick Rice, S.J.

Mathematics

With the quality of the students here at Campion, the mathematics department is very keenly challenged, but they more than meet the challenge with their well qualified personnel.

The freshmen now entering Campion come with varying backgrounds in mathematics, so a course is offered to cope with this range of differences. It is here that the basic principles and operations of elementary modern algebra are learned. This challenge is met by Fr. Wiggins, S.J. and Mr. Voss, S.J.

During their sophomore year, the students are challenged with the analysis of a problem, systematic organization, logical reasoning, and correct conclusions. In command of this stimulating course in geometry are Mr. E. V. Vacek, S.J. and Mr. Voss, S.J.

Now with two years of keen mathematical implantation the third year math student is ready to be challenged with more advanced problems in modern algebra, trigonometry, and analytic geometry. This group is capably maintained by Mr. R. W. Shipley and Mr. Voss, S.J., who teach the regular classes, and a special honors section is conducted by Fr. J. R. Hilbert, S.J.

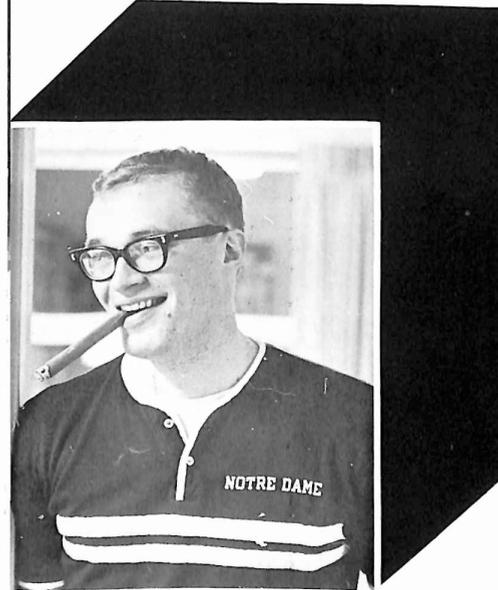

Mr. Ronald Shipley, Head of Mathematics Department.

Fr. William Kidd S.J., Senior Math.

Mr. Shipley, Junior and Senior Math.

Mr. Voss S.J., Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior Math.

Mr. E. Vacek S.J., Geometry.

After three years of math, interests and abilities widen. Therefore, the senior math students are offered a variety of math courses, including trigonometry, analytic geometry, mathematical analysis, review math and for the honors group, an advanced placement college-level course in calculus. Putting the finishing touches on Campion's mathematics program are the fourth year teachers, Fr. E. J. Hipschen, S.J., Fr. W. J. Kidd, S.J. and Mr. Shipley.

Classics

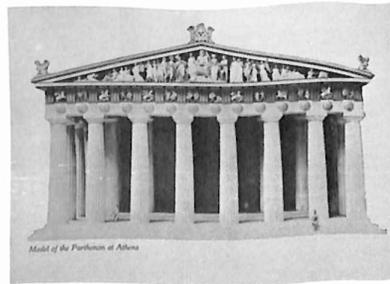

The Jesuit goal is to lead a young man to become fully human and thence to become fully Christian. They think that Greek and Roman experience is relevant and that involvement in this experience is humanizing. The Greeks and Romans have something to say to us, and so we consult them.

The classics program, which is gradually developing to encompass recent pedagogical and scientific inventions, hopes to accomplish three things: to develop linguistic competence, to enlarge a boy's intellectual and aesthetic experience, and to make him intimately aware of the foundations of western culture. Classical Latin and Greek languages and cultures are uniquely capable of accomplishing the three objectives listed above.

The Jesuit objectives in studying Classical languages have not altered from what they were fifty years ago; but the emphasis and techniques have shifted. This is an advance toward a position from which students can experience the humanizing effects intended.

Sciences

Within the past two years, Campion has greatly expanded the science program in a move toward modernization. Faculty members were added, equipment purchased, and more space obtained.

Sprawling across the fourth floor of Campion Hall is the Chemistry and Biology complex, including classrooms, labs, storage rooms, and offices. The curriculum features the CHEM-Study course and BSSC in Biology, both developed nationally over a period of years for maximum comprehension.

The third floor holds both the Physics Department and the General Science room. Physics is taught through the PSSC course, along the same lines as the other two subjects.

Father John Scott S.J., General Science.

Religion

Fr. Jim O'Connor, S.J.

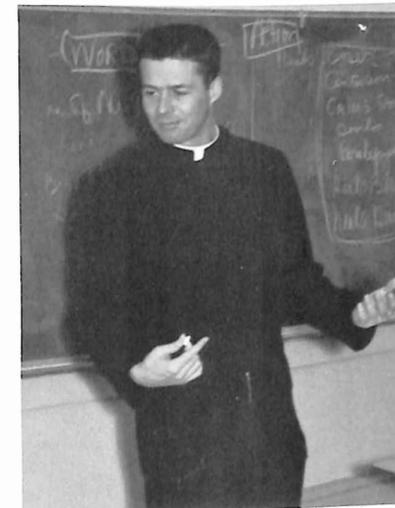

Fr. Bob Leiweke, S.J.

Fr. F. J. Aspenleiter, S.J.

"Campion's religion program hopes to foster a maturing faith-awareness of who we are. The first year course discovers God entering the human experience finally in the flesh of His Son. Faith in the living Christ of today is the basis of the sophomore religion seminars. The junior course examines man's search for God in the world religions, in contemporary theology. Poverty, race, war are all crises which mirror us to a human condition and a sickness of heart we can recognize as our personal illness. Senior year offers variety in approaches: an intense study of human and Christian love in the honors course, a sharing of experience of Christian marriage by the lay faculty in the marriage course, or small discussions based on the recently published Dutch Catechism . . ."

THE GOOD PEOPLE

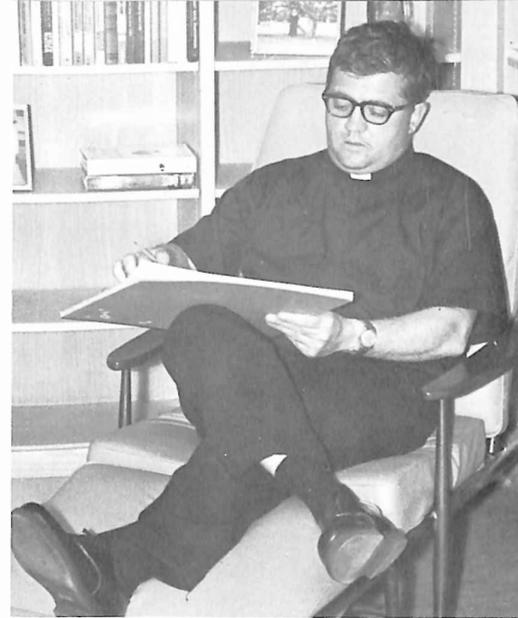

Fr. Phil Dreckman, for having three orange and two green shirts.

This is not meant to be some sort of Faculty Men Of The Year. These are just people who help, with or without recognition. And so, we present The Good People, '68.

Fr. Frank Burke, for claiming International Frisbee Championship.

Fr. Bob Leiweke, for showing up three times to have his picture taken. (The first two were miserable failures.)

Mr. Dick Rice, Senior, (despite his protest), for liking 3:30 movies and Bill Haley and His Comets.

Frosh shocked by Fr. A.'s 95 Theses.

A freshman comes to Campion as an individual, lost among strangers. With 150 such boys thrown together a class cannot function until it becomes unified. Then it will mature and succeed.

Helping Father Aspenleiter guide the Class of '71 through the birth throes of unity were Class President Charles Chester, Vice-President Tom Doyle, and Secretary-Treasurer Mike Jassak. If for nothing else, the freshmen have been notable for a large amount of class spirit and teamwork in activities from sports to debate. They exhibit an aura of purpose and may be christened someday as "great" by campus historians.

Szarabajka works on Speech.

Essentially a class is a unit, bonded together in some purpose or status. But when this "class" arrives in Lucey Hall after a summer of detachment it is hardly a unit of any kind. This year, in the sophomore class the individuals were the distinguishing factors. Mark Corbett and Tim Moore excelled on the football field while Bill Gillette and Tom Viehman protected the basketball court from foreign influence. Tom Schindler and Chris Slaughter swam their way to victory while speechmen Fred Nora, Chris Lamal, Paul Downs, and Tom Rieckleman did well in speech. Attempting to wield these and other into a class was President Mark Wood. The results of his efforts and the true status of the sophomore class are unknown until next year.

Push and then push some more. This year the junior class proceeded in its efforts to capture the myth of the well-rounded individual. Ironically, to find it, a class builds itself into a strong unit, and the individual is left to himself to improve and contribute his talents to our tinker toy model of society.

The class of '69 has suffered in past years for a lack of leadership. This year that problem was all but solved by class officers John Spellman, Mike Betlach, and Tony Waickman.

Due to the efforts of these men and many others in different extracurricular activities, the class of '69 has a brighter future as it enters the home stretch.

Student Council—

A Scratch in the Sky

Bacon, Melcher, Kaiser, Gadzik, Spellman, Hillenbrand, Bergstrom, and Wood quietly listen.

STUDENT COUNCIL: FIRST ROW: Doyle, Heberlein, Toomey, Stein, McCormick, B. O'Malley, Gadzik, Wall, and Betlach. SECOND ROW: Bacon, Anderson, M. Devenny, J. Clark, M. Schultz, Schiavone, Hillenbrand. THIRD ROW: Jassak, Mitchell, Farrell, Chester, Williamson, and Mezera. FOURTH ROW: Bayer, Spellman, Wach, Waickman, Bergstrom, Gordon, Melcher, and Cameron. FIFTH ROW: Raleigh, Viehman, Sherlock, Bernbrock, Wood, Marten, Kaiser, and Carstensen.

This year's Student Council found itself bogged down in power struggles, a changing administration, and general inactivity. Accusations flew from within and without, and were generally correct.

At the same time, few understand the problems involved in trying to arrange seminars and set up a Military Ball. Unfortunately, few of the chairmen understood either. The problem was basically one of communication between classes, further complicating the above-mentioned hindrances to accomplishment.

Yet perhaps the initial ambitions of the members come from that immortal administration policy, as embellished in that hallowed oaken sign over the door: "Let no power ever be invested in this organization."

Sodality And YCS . . .

Religious day at Wyalusing.

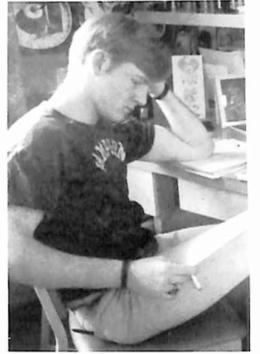

The Sodality's CCAR was a great success.

Again this year the Sodality continued to move forward under the direction of Fr. Leiweke S.J. A house was built for the needy families of Prairie, and Wyalusing was the host of religious weekends. The regular Masses were well organized. The Old Folks Home was well attended by the Sodalists, and we can't forget the CCAR which was such a great success under the direction of the Sodality. Yes, for the first time there was as much action as there were words in the Sodality circles.

The guidance of Mr. Radde S.J. and the assistance of Mark Sullivan moved the YCS organization along to the degree of success that it deserved. Cyril Paul entertained, and Dr. Tony Meyer gave interesting talks. There were study days and interracial days. Weekends in the Inner City of Milwaukee and at Wyalusing proved to be most beneficial to the all around growth of the participants. The Young Christian Students have surely come into their own in only their second year.

Tuesday And Friday

It was a year of advents. Girls came. Protestants came. There was wine for all. And bread loaves. Art and mobiles in church.

It was a year of realizations. The froth blew away and the icing melted to reveal amazing things. All attenders are not J.C.'s. Mass time is not always joyful.

For the Mass it was a year much like the Vietnam years have been. There was dissension. Some of the founding fathers no longer show themselves. There were attacks. Frightful blows at motives. There were divisions. The hardcore and the fringe. And there was a general bewilderment about where we're going and why.

It was a year of dreams and frustrations. The immensity of the crowd made things difficult. Not everyone would extend themselves. Too many were looking. Not enough creating. The "what could have been done" will always linger.

It was a year of high waves and low ebbs. There was the anniversary cake. There was the Friday night stations and all the melted wax. There was the "mass clique" article. There were the walkouts. There was the Christmas show. There were the arguments. There were the provincial's compliments.

It was a year of people being humans. There is the main plot of the action at the altar and the sub-plots before, during and after mass. The glances across the room. The warm words of good cheer. The genuine interest maybe not so much for thought as for feelings.

It was a year of people being Christians. Or at least on the way. Much was learned. Values we reversed. Pain was upmost. Sacrifice was in. Pleasure and satisfaction are momentary for there is work to be done. A heart to change. An attitude to melt. A world to grow. A kite to launch.

The Senior class of 1968 was not the greatest class ever graduated by Campion. We were not a "Dream Class," and certainly not a passive one.

But perhaps in some small way '68 contributed a little of itself to Campion and the future of the school. We would like to think that we were at least partly responsible for the changing face of the school and for the humanized view of the student, but we are hardly the ones to judge.

Usually the copy for the Senior section goes in one of two directions: either self-praise is heaped abundantly, or an endless recitation of extracurricular accomplishments drives the reader close to becoming a misanthrope.

But these two approaches fail to explore anything but a self-contained group of people who were thrown together chronologically.

We are simply trying to say that many others were changed at least a little through contact with '68. And hopefully the change was for the better.

Men of the Year

Men of the Year is dead.
Men of the Year is unfair, since all who are men are men of the year. So all men who were at Campion this year are men of the year.

Dear Reader:

We hope you liked the book. Or if you didn't, that you thought it was original and real; since that is what we tried to do. I hope we succeeded. And I hope future KNIGHTS will try to be better.

The theme of the book is Campion's future. The section headings represent various astrological symbols, where ancient man sought for the future. The nude at the beginning of the Fall section is not out of Playboy; she is Libra, the goddess of autumn.

Anyway it was fun. Thanks to Tom Schlenker's unloyal opposition, Dave Valiulis' ideas, the talents of Tom Spicer, Ken Oakes and Jim Wickhem. To Jon McCormick's and Jerry Barnett's unswerving devotion to duty, to Steve Miller's and Chris Lamal's creative consistency, and Norm LeCompte's many missed deadlines. To Chuck Haskins' patience with Dave Valiulis, and the organizational skills of Dave Haase. To the fingers of Mark Havlik and Jim Torrey, and to my own total ignorance in yearbook affairs. To Fr. Kidd's advice and the school department heads who were not too busy to write copy for their sections. And to outsiders Mr. and Mrs. Bob Maddigan of DeLonge Studio, Madison, and Bob Graf of the American Yearbook Company; to Brother Staber's chair repairmen. And to the Campion people of 1967-68, whose story we tried to tell in our own way, which is all a yearbook can do.
